DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 1-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Nimura, USPN 6,425,827, in view of Nagao et al., USPN 6,394,898.

What Nimura discloses has been discussed in the previous Office action on the Merits and is incorporated herein. What Nimura lacks in disclosing is the output level of the sound being adjusted according to character position on the display means. In an analogous device, Nagao et al. teaches and suggests a hoof beat generation unit (38), see e.g. figure 2. This unit is designed to adjust the hoofbeat sounds dependent on the race developments, see col. 7 through col. 8 and figures 3 and 4. Thus, Nagao et al. teaches and suggest to adjust the output levels dependent upon the position of the characters on the display means, the character in Nagao et al. disclosure are the horses. Therefore, one of ordinary skill in the art would find it obvious to apply the well known teaching of adjusting sound level output dependent upon character position on a display means as obvious in view of Nagao et al. one way of achieving such a result in order to add realism to the game as suggested by Nagao et al.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-14 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Applicant's amendment is just adding a well known process in the video gaming arts. For example, the Applicant could witness such a process by watching a race car simulation game, e.g. GT 3 from Sony Entertainment and hear the cars, the characters, sound outputs be adjusted according to the cars position on the television screen. The Examiner has utilized the Nagao et al. reference as a more concrete example; however, if the Applicant wishes to pursue this line of amendment then the Examiner will have to resort to an Examiner's Affidavit swearing to such a feature is notorious well-known in the video gaming arts.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
